Free Bingo Offers-what are they?

Lots of online bingo sites have free bingo offers but this doesn't always mean they have bingo games or free bingo bonus. It can be confusing so let us explain what sort of free bingo offers are out there and what to look out for.

No deposit bonus

When you join a new bingo site you will sometimes be given a free bingo no deposit bonus, this is usually paid in BBs and can be used to play a few games before you make a decision about the site and spend any of your own money.

Free Bingo Rooms

Other sites simply give new members access to a free bingo room for a set number of days, giving them a taste of what's to come should they deposit. Take Panda Bingo, they give all newbies 48 hours access to their Newbie Room. This room is open all day long and offers free cash jackpots.

Bonus codes for Free Bingo

The best free bingo offers in our opinion, are the offers regular members get just for being a member. These come in many forms but commonly the free bonus code. Sites such as ChitChat Bingo and Bobs Bingo regularly post free bingo codes on their Facebook pages. Members then redeem the codes on site by typing them into redeem coupon box in the cashier. Some online bingo comparison sites will have bonus code sections where they lists codes for lots of sites so it's always worth looking out for that. And don't be too quick to bin that bingo mailer you've been receiving in your emails, these may contain a freebie code enclosed so why not take a minute to check? Players love a free bingo code but you need to be aware that the majority of the time you will not be able to withdraw any winnings derived from free bonus codes unless you are happy to meet the wagering requirements. These can be ridiculous so make sure you check them out at your preferred bingo site before you get excited about withdrawing your winning.

Free Bingo Games

Some sites offer free bingo games to their members. The majority of the time these games/rooms will be for funded players only but you do get the occasional site where anyone can take advantage of a freebie game. The prizes are usually pretty low in free bingo games, they're not going to give you the chance to win thousands for nothing but places like Kitty Bingo give you £20 jackpots and £20 is better than a kick in the teeth. Free bingo promotions are another way bingo sites give their members free bingo. Make sure you check the T and Cs as there's nearly always a catch. Sometimes you need to be a funded member, which is fair enough but needs to be made clear from the offset. Other times the free bingo is only available to you if you've bought x amount of bingo tickets over a set period of time. Again, the prizes won't necessarily be much but something for nothing is always nice. Occasionally bingo sites let you upgrade free bingo tickets so you can play for higher prizes, this is a little confusing as your free bingo ticket then needs to be paid for to upgrade it so stops being a free ticket. Whatever the free bingo deal, make sure you read the small print so you know exactly what you're getting and whether you can actually access any winnings you might win from taking part.
