What are bingo chat games?

Bingo chat games are simply games that you'll find in bingo chat rooms. Every bingo site has a chat room, which is essentially a forum where you can talk to other players about pretty much everything, whether it's related to bingo or not. Chat games are another way to win bonuses and are very popular with players. All chat rooms have chat hosts, whose job it is to oversee the room and to ensure that everything's running smoothly and that there's no one being abusive, disobeying the rules or anything like that. Chat hosts are excitable, enthusiastic about the game, and very friendly. One of their main jobs is to answer any questions that players have, so they have to know everything about the site and its games. Chat games make the rooms a lot more lively and atmospheric than usual. There's a buzz about the rooms whenever chat games are being held. You'll see that different sites offer different games. There are chat games for beginners, as well as some that are a bit more advanced and require more skill to win.

Easy chat games

The easy chat games are great if you're just getting started. The prizes on offer aren't as big as what the harder chat games, but you can still earn yourself a decent prize here and there if you're lucky enough to win. There are a few things you should remember to help you win:

- Take part in trivia quizzes. They're really easy and practically anyone can successfully answer the questions. They're designed to be accessible, not challenging, so as not to put people off playing them.
- If you're listed below a winning roomie in a buddy or neighbour game, you'll win. These are the easiest games to win as there's no skill involved, just luck.
- Try to find quieter rooms to play in. The fewer players there are, the better chance you have of winning.

Hard chat games

The hard chat games usually require more skill than the easy games. The games are bigger, more exciting and more complex; they also offer bigger prizes and rewards, so there's more of an incentive to play them. Here are three things to remember about the harder chat games:

- You have to type really quickly at times and you always have to type correctly – a simple spelling mistake could cost you a win.
- If you have to type a long answer, you have to be extra careful to type the correct answer. Make sure you can type fast so you stand a good chance of winning.
- There are some games whose rules are quite complicated. This goes for games where you have to choose balls and numbers. Not only do these games tend to be quite complicated, they also have lower prizes.

Chat game bonus rules

As always, it's important for you to read the rules so you know exactly what chat games are all about. If you win a chat game, you'll usually be rewarded with bonus funds, which you can use to play games with or to purchase bingo tickets; these bonus funds can't be withdrawn, however. You can only win a chat game and collect a bonus if you've already made your first deposit. There are loads of great bingo chat room games to get involved with, so head to your favourite bingo site and see what chat games are on offer. You never know, you might end up winning a great prize or two.
