
Why Play Online Bingo?

Written by Matt Kennedy | Last updated: 17 June 2015

Playing bingo online is often a very different experience to playing in person, even though the aim of the game is exactly the same. Here we take a look at the advantages and disadvantages of playing online bingo and live bingo.

Convenience

Playing bingo online offers a huge convenience factor that playing bingo in person doesn't. Playing over the Internet allows you to stay at home and enjoy a game without having to travel or get dressed up. Many people do like playing live too, but enjoying online bingo doesn't mean that you're restricted to not going out to play as well. Adding to the convenience factor is the fact that bingo sites are always open, any time of the day or night. There will always be online games available, whereas live bingo doesn't offer this option. Bingo games at live venues often take time and there can also be waiting time in between games. When playing online bingo you'll find that you can play for exactly as long as you like, as short games can be exciting and easy to find.

Socialising

When you're playing bingo at a live venue, you're surrounded by people and so the social side of the game can be one of the biggest advantages. However, online bingo has a bigger social side than you may think. You can get a real feel for the community of a site by visiting the chatrooms where you can 'meet' new people from countries around the globe. Some people prefer to focus on the game and that is always an option, but the social aspect is available too.

Jackpots and Prizes

There's no denying that winning prizes is one of the biggest draws of playing bingo and we all want the chance to win big. Live bingo venues sometimes offer big prizes but this usually limited to those that are part of a group. Online jackpots are almost always bigger than when playing in person as there are more players online and so there's more money in the kitty.

Fees and Variety

As well as the jackpots, you'll find that the variety of game entry fees online is much greater than at a live venue. It's usually cheaper to play online bingo but there are also fees to suit all levels, meaning you'll be sure to find games that are perfect for your budget. In addition, the huge variety of games available online, trumps those available when playing live. Every site offers a large number of games so you'll never run out of something new to try. Side games are also available, which can range from casino games to quick instant win games.

Our Conclusion

While playing live has advantages, playing bingo online has many more, which makes it by far the best choice in our opinion. But playing online doesn't mean that you need to miss out on playing in person too. If you haven't played online before then make sure to read some reviews and recommendations of bingo sites before you choose one to make sure that it's one of the best.
